

TALKED GOOD ROADS
TO RUDOLPH PEOPLE

A crowd which filled Haumschild's Hall at Rudolph Saturday night turned out to hear the speakers on the good roads and bond issue, which was presented by Grand Rapids talkers to the citizens of that community. The Grand Rapids band accompanied the speakers and people from many miles around had come in to take in the affair.

Paul Zimmerman, chairman of the town, presided at the meeting, introducing Otto E. Roenius, and saying a few words in behalf of the good road issue.

Mr. Roenius told the men that the most important thing to remember in voting for this issue was that whether you reside on the road that in the present program for construction, or not, you will benefit by having the road built. There has been considerable talk among some of the farmers who do not reside on the roads showing a lack of interest, a few assuming the attitude that they are not benefited unless they live directly on the road. This is entirely a false idea as the man who resides on a tributary road has just as much concrete to travel on as the man living directly on the road. He may still have to travel a mile or two to reach the concrete, but he benefits just the same. This was one of the points which Mr. Roenius brought out to the people gathered, as there are a number of residents up there who would like to have the route changed. It will be impossible to pave all the roads in the county now, Mr. Roenius explained, but the way to get them all paved is to boost this bond issue and get things started. This will pave many of the main roads and the tributary roads will come next. When the people see the advantages of having these roads paved they won't stop at having the main highways surfaced.

F. P. Mengel, division engineer for this district, explained many of the technical points of the issue, how the bonds were issued and told of the expense connected with it. He laid out the routes over which the roads will be run, and showed to the people there why these were the right roads to select at this time. There were a number asked questions which were answered, and it seemed that the people were generally for the issue.

This afternoon a large number of the business men and good road boosters are over at Pittsville, where they are boosting the good road issue at the Home Coming there. The band accompanied the men and several good speakers will talk. Several other meetings are planned in different communities, in fact the chairman of practically every town in the county is asking for speakers. The issue has aroused a good deal of interest in the county and is being pretty generally discussed.

Mrs. Ella Schultz has donated a complete set of Dickens works, including twenty volumes, to the Wittenburg Library. The traveling libraries have previously had, practically none of Dickens works.

TO TAKE TRAFFIC CENSUS
ON WOOD COUNTY HIGHWAYS

Complying with a request from the State Highway Commission, Com. Amundson will take a traffic census of all vehicles passing over certain Wood County roads two days each month for the coming three months. The census was taken Wednesday when the number of Wisconsin cars, the number of foreign cars, trucks and motorcycles, were recorded for the reference of the Commission.

The three places where the census will be taken is at a point between Port Edwards and Grand Rapids, a point on the Vesper road between this city and Seneca Corners and on the Auburndale road, between Auburndale and Hewitt. The patrolmen in the northern part of the county will probably take care of the census under the direction of Com. Amundson.

The census will be taken from six in the morning until eleven at night, when it is considered the greatest portion of the traffic passes over the road. The figures derived should be quite interesting to the residents, giving them an idea of how much the roads are used and how many tourists are going thru. The census will be taken one day during the week and one Sunday.

RUDOLPH GIRL HELD FOR ABANDONING HER CHILD

Miss Beatrice St. Dennis, of Rudolph, is being held, by the authorities of this city, charged with abandoning an illegitimate child, of which she is charged with being the mother. The case arose out of the finding of a baby boy, a few hours old, in a vacant lot on Tenth street. William Smith discovered the child last Saturday morning when on his way to work. He heard a wall and looking into the field found that a child was lying wrapped in a pair of white overalls. He notified Chief R. S. Payne, who took the child to the hospital and investigated the case. Miss St. Dennis was arrested, and according to the police admits her guilt. She states, however, that she left the child in the field thinking it to be dead.

Later Ben Speltz a Rudolph young man, was arrested charged with bastardy, the young woman stating that he was father of the child Sunday evening the child passed away, a coroner's jury viewed the remains but due to the absence of district attorney Frank W. Calkins the case was adjourned until September 8th.

CHARGE STRIKERS WITH ASSAULTING EMPLOYER

John Van Ruth, Fred Nelson, Alfred Hennings, Steve Uhouse and Jacob Lassa, were arraigned in Judge Conway's court Wednesday afternoon charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm on the person of Prestis Coon, an employee of the Nekooza-Edwards Co. According to the story Mr. Coon went down to the mill to go to work Monday morning when he was attacked by a crowd of strikers, who had assembled around the entrance to the mill. He started to go on thru the crowd, according to the affidavit, and was seized, beaten, and bruised up. When arraigned in court the defense asked an adjournment of the case and it was adjourned until September 8th.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES AFTER GENERAL RAISE IN PAY

Postmaster Robert L. Nash went down to Milwaukee Tuesday where he was in conference with other postmasters of second class offices in the state, regarding an increase in pay to postmasters and postal employees. While the general cost of living has been advancing there has been no advance in the salaries paid the postmasters. The meeting held in Milwaukee was a preliminary one which will be followed by a larger gathering of postmasters of several states held in St. Paul.

If the bill before congress becomes a law it will add an increase in salary amounting to 35 per cent. This is a permanent increase and is over and above the present temporary bonus of $100 a year which the employees are to receive to tide them over the present contingency. The bill also provides for an increase of 100 per cent in the salary of substitutes. The present wage is 40 cents an hour. This is to be increased to 80 cents, the bill proposes. The bill has been referred to the senate committee for action.

A committee composed of five senators and five representatives of the postal employees is now at work upon a readjustment of the postoffice employees to receive the increase of 85 per cent and the substitutes 100 per cent, remains to be seen, but it is expected that a permanent increase in salary to all postal employees be made.

The remains will be brought here this evening and taken to the Louis Christensen home on 109, 4th Ave. S. Arrangements for the funeral were not made at the time of going to press.

Wausau Pilot—Thirty vacancies in the rural schools of Marathon county remain to be filled, according to Sup't. J. E. Giessele. The salaries obtainable range between $60 and $90 a month. That there is an indifferent attitude on the part of many seems to be the reason for the delay. However, it is believed that no trouble will be experienced at the last minute in finding teachers enough to go around.

SHOW NO INTEREST IN NATIONAL GUARD

A mass meeting which had been scheduled for the Army last Monday night, called in the interest of organizing a National Guard unit in this city, brought out but a small attendance of citizens of the city, and the absence of former service men was conspicuous. Major C. J. Otjen, who spoke here last spring in the interest of the Victory Liberty League, and who is one of the best speakers on the platform in Wisconsin today, came up to give the boys an address, but instead of finding a crowd of ex-service men to greet him he was confronted by a small audience including mostly the older business and professional men.

Major Otjen, who was a member of the First Division in France, spoke briefly on his experiences across the water, and presented to the people the necessity of having a strong National Guard. The Mexican and the Japanese situations, he said, are both worthy of attention and the only way that this country can be prepared to meet them is by having a strongly organized guard. The Major presented figures from the recent war showing that the guard furnished more divisions for the army in France than did the regular army. He showed the number of days there had been spent on the front the number they were in action and the number of men they had lost while fighting the Germans. The figures he presented showed conclusively the amount of work the National Guard did and was one of the best arguments used in favor of organizing here.

Atty. Brzezian, who introduced the speaker, outlined the necessity of having a guard unit here, and pointed out how in other towns the guard was the backbone of the entire city. Otto R. Roenius spoke of the good accomplished by the State Guards in this city and was very enthusiastic about organizing a National Guard unit. He stated that the citizens had been a little selfish in not giving the State Guards more support and recognition, but said that it was more thru carelessness than thru the fact that they were not appreciated. Senator Witter explained the benefits the city would derive thru the recent Army bill, passed by the State Legislature, how the state authorities were looking for us to furnish a military unit. Grand Rapids, the senator said, always pulls thru, but always comes just under the line. The people here are not slackers, he said, but seem to need a bomb exploded under them to wake them up.

Captain Ed. Arpin spoke briefly to the men, stating that he would prefer to see an infantry company organized here as its equipment was not as hard to secure as the equipment for a battery of artillery or for a cavalry troop. Captain Arpin spoke of the good accomplished by the National Guard abroad, and while he said he had never supported the Guard before the war, he was very enthusiastic about the things the men had accomplished abroad.

R. M. Gibson spoke of organizing a battery troop, expressing himself as being of the opinion that the men would prefer that. Captain Herschleb explained the difficulties that accompany organizing a unit and supporting it after its organization. The people have to give it support, he stated, not financially so much, he said, as they take care of themselves that way, but morally.

Mr. Brzezian urged the people to go out and speak to their friends about this movement and stated that later there would be another meeting at which the unit will actually be organized.

At the time for opening the meeting it was seen that there was a rather limited audience and the band turned out, playing several numbers and attracting quite a few people. However, should Grand Rapids want to have a military unit the men who have been in the service will have to take considerably more interest than they showed last night.

Edw. Haumschild and Alex Zimmerman were pleasant callers at the Tribune office on Tuesday, having driven down from Rudolph to transact some business. Both Zimmerman and Mr. Haumschild are driving new Ford cars which they purchased within the past week. Mr. Zimmerman had to buy a new Ford last week to replace one they took away from him, the car he had bought previously to this having been a stolen car. He had bought the car from a garage in Stevens Point.

Last Wednesday the owner, in company with a detective, came to Mr. Zimmerman's place and claimed the car, proving it to be the property. He was paid back the money he paid for it and gave it up. The car had been stolen by a band of thieves who had stolen fifty-five other cars, several of which were sold around central Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Leroux, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leroux, and families, of Sherry, were business visitors in the city the first of the week. They report that everything up in their section of the county is growing fine, that the corn will be exceptionally good crop and that grains were fine this year. The only crop which does not look exceptionally well this year, they state, is the potato crop, it being a little bit doubtful how they will turn out.

BRIGHT FUTURE FOR POTATO FLOUR CO.

I. A. Simons, Pittsburg, Pa., general manager of the Falk American Potato Flour Co. arrived in the city the latter part of the week, inspecting the company's new plant here, located in the Reiland Packing Co. building.

"I am very favorably impressed with the city of Grand Rapids and the prospects of the plant located here," Mr. Simons told representative business men who called on him regarding the Grand Rapids plant.

Grand Rapids to understand he said, "is that we are here as one of them. We want to bear our share of the burdens of the city, aid in the campaigns for making it a bigger and better town, and do our part financially when it comes to doing something that really will be a benefit to its citizens."

"We are going to have one of our largest plants right here in Grand Rapids," Mr. Simons told Mayor Briere and Sec. Frittsinger in a conference with them last Friday, "and we want the people here to co-operate and work with us to promote the success of the plant. There is no limit to the number of men we may employ here or to the amount of business we will do, except the supply of potatoes that are furnished us. The farmers who formerly fed their number two potatoes to stock cannot afford to do that now, as we will buy up every available bushel of these potatoes in the future."

One of the features of the Grand Rapids plant which is not included in any of the other nineteen plants owned and being put into operation by this company, is a complete paper box plant, which will manufacture the paper box containers which the flour will be shipped out in. The paper box plant will make boxes for all the plants and will require employing several more men here than it was originally intended to employ. The board for the manufacture of the boxes will be purchased from local mills if possible.

Mr. Simons, who is general manager of all the plants the Falk company are putting into operation, stated that the company expected to have twenty of the factories in operation this fall. In company with H. D. Hukill, local manager, he left the first of the week for Idaho Falls, where they will look over a new plant they have purchased and take the preliminary steps toward putting it into operation.

According to the local men the plant should mean considerable to the farmers of this locality, as there will never be a question about the market for their potatoes as long as the plant is in operation and the number two stock, which formerly was a drug on the market and often fed to stock, will be in continuous demand.

"We are ready to buy anything from a wagon load to a train load here," Mr. Simons said, "and will pay a price that is attractive to the farmers." "Everything we get here will be paid for," Mr. Simons said. "We are ready to pay our way and we pay in cash. All the potatoes which are brought to our plant are paid for in cash as they are delivered."

Mr. Simons is a young man, evidently well versed in his business, who makes his decisions quickly and with rare judgment. He states that the capital stock of the Falk company is $1,000,000 and the company are setting aside $250,000 this year which will be spent in a national advertising campaign.

G. J. Kaudy spent Tuesday at Black River Falls, where he visited with J. S. Thompson, who is located there and is engaged in erecting his new box factory. It is expected that the new plant will be ready for operation within the next three months.

Oliver Akey of Rudolph was among the callers at the Tribune office on Monday. Mr. Akey was mourning the loss of his cow, the animal having become tangled in a rope with which it was tethered and threw herself in such a manner as to break her neck.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Leroux, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leroux, and families, of Sherry, were business visitors in the city the first of the week. They report that everything up in their section of the county is growing fine, that the corn will be exceptionally good crop and that grains were fine this year. The only crop which does not look exceptionally well this year, they state, is the potato crop, it being a little bit doubtful how they will turn out.

WAR MOTHERS BACK
SOLDIER BONUS BILL

Grand Rapids War Mothers, working in co-operation with the War Mothers Board of Wisconsin, are backing up the soldiers Bonus Bill which will come up for a vote of the people September second. Working through the state the mothers of the boys who spent their time in the camps of this country and abroad are helping to get the bonus bill across. Speakers in many communities are boosting the proposition, and while there will not be any active campaign in Wood County on the bonus bill, it is generally felt that there is no opposition here, and that the people are going to generally vote for it.

The resolution which the Wisconsin War Mothers have adopted follows:

Whereas, many of those men who stayed at home in safety during the world war were entitled financially by high wages and returning service men are at a disadvantage.

Whereas, though no sum of money can adequately recompense the nurses and service men, any fair-minded person acknowledges that they deserve at least $10.00 a month bonus as a slight token of appreciation to help them re-establish themselves in the community and to maintain their faith in those for whom they sacrificed.

Whereas, the burden of taxes will be light compared to the levy that would have been imposed had we not won the war, or compared to the tax necessary if the war had continued, and will be as nothing compared to the debt that we owe to our fighting men.

We, the War Mothers of Wisconsin, who gave our sons in service believing that the greatest tribute to the heroic dead is to do justice to their surviving comrades, do earnestly appeal to the citizens of Wisconsin, all of whom are enjoying the peace and prosperity so dearly bought by our sons, to partially redeem the general fair promises made to our sons by granting them $10.00 a month bonus for each month of military duty. We beseech that their hopes which have been raised, be not disappointed. We do not want our sons to fight "over there" for us, and be compelled to fight for their rights at home.

MILWAUKEE BUSINESS MEN
VISITED CITY WEDNESDAY

A special train, carrying about fifty members of the Milwaukee Merchants & Manufacturers Association, arrived in the city Wednesday morning, the Milwaukee men spending several hours here. Local business men met them at the train with automobiles and forming into a parade, headed by a Milwaukee band, the procession marched to the east side of the river. The automobiles took the men up around Biron, giving them an idea of the beauties of the Wisconsin river.

The band played a concert in the west side stand during the morning the business men calling on their friends here and going thru the different mills. The paper mill was visited by a large number while different manufacturers entertained their friends.

They left for Wausau at eleven-thirty, very liberal in their praise of this city and the treatment they had been accorded here.

FINED FOR SPEEDING

Carl Arpin, of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Arpin, appeared in Judge Getts court on Monday, charged with speeding on Baker street with a motorcycle. Officer Panter made the arrest. When in court Arpin pleaded guilty to speeding but claimed that it was unavoidable, the handle of the motorcycle being controlled by the speed of the machine, having come off. The Judge figured that the fine was unavoidable and assessed him $5 and costs, totaling $7.08. Paul Totzke, of Biron appeared in Judge Getts court facing a charge of speeding, pleaded not guilty and asked a week's adjournment, which was granted.

The members of the Wood County Normal Faculty have been busy during the past week preparing the exhibit they will present at the Marshall Fair next week. The exhibit will display nearly every crop raised in Wood County and will display it in a very unique manner. The idea being worked out is spelling a message to the young people of the county from the Normal, regarding their work by using oats, barley, wheat, beans, and other products to form the words. When completed the display will be a very attractive one.

MEETING GOOD SUCCESS

The committee who has in charge the work of collecting funds for pushing the good road work that is being done in this city and locality report that they have met with good success among the merchants of this city, all of them responding nobly to the call, with the exception of one man.

The committee started out to raise $750, and had no difficulty in rounding up this sum, some of those that were approached on the subject giving more than they were asked for.

WAUSAU COUNTY BOYS ARE FLYING OWN MACHINE

Visitors over at Stevens Point Sunday were given a chance to fly in a regular airplane, providing they had the cash to pay their fare, and those who were not feeling to fly in action, carrying other passengers. The aviators were two young men from Westfield and Plainfield, who have a machine which they purchased last week. The fare they charged for flights was ten dollars for ten minutes or a straight dollar a minute proposition. One of the Stevens Point boys got reckless Sunday, and one of his friends said that he was afraid to get in the machine. His friend went up all right, stayed thirty minutes and saved the other $20 for some future flight, or probably for the first payment on a machine of his own.

The Hancock News tells the following of the young men who have the machine:

Conant Bros. flew from Chicago to Westfield Saturday afternoon, stopping at Janesville for gas and near Dalton on account of engine trouble. On Tuesday, Lieut. Rellie Sonant came in the machine to the Conant came in the machine to the where Lieut. Clifford Jones joined him and together they went to Stevens Point, with Clifford driving. They flew low over here, making the plane give a couple of neat tumbles above the Janesville garage, then climbed to about 2000 feet and circled the 30 mile flight in 24 minutes or at the rate of 75 miles an hour. This plane is 36 feet from tip to tip, 26 feet long, is painted yellow and has a 20 h. p. engine. Conant and Jones went to Stevens Point to do some fancy flying and carry passengers on short flights. This machine is also scheduled to appear at the Westfield, Wautoma, Portage and Weyauwega fairs, and at the Red Cross at the Janesville Coming celebration on Labor Day.

LOCALS WON FROM STEVENS
POINT TEAM LAST SUNDAY

The Grand Rapids base ball team went over to Stevens Point last Sunday where they defeated the team in that city by a nine to six score. The Grand Rapids boys had the opponents by a nine to three score at the beginning of the ninth inning. Stevens Point ran in three runs, two of them being homers. The Stevens Point Journal tells the story as follows:

"The Grand Rapids baseball team won from the locals at the fair grounds Sunday afternoon, 9 to 6. The game was featured by two home runs and a rally in the ninth inning by the Stevens Point team when the score stood 9 to 3.

"The absence of Vrobel and Fishleigh from the local lineup was no doubt partly responsible for the defeat. Vrobel, who was a home run stricker in the right wing with a ball before the game began and Fishleigh was out of the game until the ninth inning due to an injury to one of his legs. Both men are sure hitters. Fishleigh went to bat for the locals in the last inning, registering a hit. His were made by Krensis, O. Vrietel and Walldner and three runs followed. Myers, third baseman for the Rapids, knocked a home run in the fifth inning, and E. Vrobel scored the second home run of the game in the next frame. Sidney Eagleburger and George Fisher comprised the Stevens Point battery with Chapman and Miller performing for the winners.

All six of the young ladies are Grand Rapids girls and while they are getting quite a ways from home will have quite a Grand Rapids colony out there.

PRESIDENT DENIES TREATY WAR PACT

Wilson Tells Senate Committee
Congress Only War Maker.

JAPAN WON'T RULE SHANTUNG

Tells Senators Tokyo Has Promised to Give Up Any Sovereignty There—
Asks Them to Interpret but Not to Change Treaty.

Washington, Aug. 20.—In a conference at the White House unprecedented in American history, President Wilson discussed the peace treaty with the senate foreign relations committee and gave out a stenographic transcript of the proceedings to the public.

Some of the inside details of the peace conference, how the League of Nations covenant was drawn, and other historic happenings were handed out verbatim for the world to read. The transcript, a presidential and senatorial "confidence,"

Nothing approaching the conference in that respect is recalled since George Washington went to the senate to discuss troubles with the Indians.

Urges Speedy Ratification.

Making a plea for ratification of the treaty that the world might be wholly back to a peace, the president said he had no reasonable objection to the senate expressing its interpretation of the League of Nations covenant so long as those interpretations did not actually become part of the act of ratification.

If interpretations were part of the formal ratification, the president contended, long delays would follow, as other governments would have to accept in effect the language of the senate as the language of the treaty before ratification would be complete.

Most of the interpretations, the president said, seemed to him to suggest the "plain meaning of the instrument itself."

Must Get U. S. Consent.

The much-discussed article ten, the president told the senators, was not of doubtful interpretation when read in connection with the whole covenant. The council, he said, could only "advise," and as its action must be unanimous, the affirmative vote of the United States would be necessary for any question affecting it.

Article sixteen, the president said, provided that where there is a dispute found to be solely within the jurisdiction of one of the parties, under later action of the league council shall report and make no recommendation for its settlement. Immigration, tariffs and the like, the president said, clearly came under that provision.

The plan for the league, finally submitted in Paris, the president said, had been built up first from a plan drawn by a British committee headed by a Mr. Phillimore and later included ideas from a plan drawn by General Smuts.

From these and other discussions, coupled with the president's own ideas, the league plan was made.

Own Redraft Not Submitted.

His own private redraft of the Phillimore plan, the president said, was not submitted to the American peace mission. He had seen Secretary Lansing's response only in summary.

The president said the United States would have "complete freedom of choice as to the application of force" in carrying out article ten of the league covenant.

The president told the committee the league council would have "nothing whatever" to do with deciding whether the United States had fulfilled its obligations in case of withdrawal from the league.

The conference was not held in the blue room, as had been planned, the president taking his visitors into the east room, where they were seated around a big table. Senator Lodge sat next to the president.

Japan Won't Rule Shantung.

To a query as to what sovereignty Japan retained in Shantung President Wilson said:

"She has not retained sovereignty over anything. I mean she has promised not to. Senator Borah has asked whether this understanding was oral or otherwise. I do not like to describe the operation exactly if it is not perfect descent. As a matter of fact, this was technically oral, but literally written and formulated and the formulation agreed upon."

President Wilson said he disagreed with the opinion given the committee by Secretary Lansing that Japan would have signed the treaty regarding Shantung if it contained the Shantung provision.

"When is the return of Shantung to China to be made?" asked Senator Johnson.

"That was left undecided, but we were assured at the time that it would be as soon as possible."

"Did not the Japanese decline to fix any date?"

"They did at that time, yes; but I think it is fair to them to say they could not at that time say when it would be."

Senator New—Mr. President, does this mean indefinite promise of Japan's suggest the somewhat ambiguous case of England's occupation of Malta? She has occupied Malta for something like a century, I believe, under a very similar promise.

Little Helen's Idea.

Helen had a good imagination. One day, when playing blind man's buff, she was seen crawling on all fours. The "blind man" stumbled over her and when she uncovered her eyes and asked why Helen was down on her knees, Helen replied: "I thought you would think it was a dog."

Too Busy for Gratitude.

The quality for which we most frequently criticize the Japanese is one in which, with curious inconsistency, they themselves pride themselves. That is their determination to be independent. If an American has something to teach a Japanese, the Japanese observes him very carefully while he performs the trick. Then, with a polite "Thank you, Goonby," the Japanese leaves the American and thereafter, performs the trick for himself.

The President—I hope you will pardon me if I do not answer that question.

Senator Fall asked who would defend the mandate territories against external aggression under the league, and the president replied that primarily the duty would rest with the mandatory power.

Only through action by congress shall the United States lend any military assistance to other members of the League of Nations. This was stated emphatically by the president.

The United States is only under moral obligations to the other nations, the president said, declaring that the league covenant does not in any way detract from the power of the congress.

Asks About Other Treaties.

After the president had delivered his statement, Senator Lodge said:

"Mr. President, so far as I am personally concerned—and I think I represent perhaps the majority of the committee in that respect—we have no thought of entering upon arguments as to interpretations or points of that character; but the committee was very desirous of getting information on certain points which seem not clear and which they thought information would be of value to have in consideration of the treaty which they, I think I may say for myself and others, desire to hasten in every possible way."

"Your reference to the necessity of action leads me to ask one question. If we have to restore peace to the world, it is necessary, I assume, that there should be treaties with Austria, Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria. Those treaties are all more or less connected with the treaty with Germany. The question I should like to ask is, what the prospect is of receiving those treaties after this?"

Senator Causey Delay.

The president's reply was very good, sir, and so far as I can judge from the contents of the dispatches from my colleagues on the other side of the water, the chief delay is due to the uncertainty as to what is going to happen to this treaty. This treaty is a model of the others. I saw enough of the others before I left Paris to know that they are being framed on the same basis as the treaty with Germany. I think that is the chief element of delay, sir.

Senator Lodge—They are not regarded as essential to the consideration of this treaty?

"The President—They are not regarded as such, sir; they follow this treaty."

Senator Lodge—I do not know about the other treaties, but the treaty with Poland, for example, has been completed.

Treaty With Poland Signed.

"The President—Yes and signed; but it is dependent upon this treaty. My thought was to submit it upon the action on this treaty."

Senator Lodge then asked whether the president could show the committee the contents of principles of Nations pact submitted by Great Britain, France and Italy.

"The President—I would have sent them to the committee with pleasure, senator, if I had found that I had them. I took it for granted that I had them; but the papers that remain in my hands remain there in a haphazard way. I can tell you the character of the drafts. The British draft was the only one as I remember that was in the form of a definite constitution of a league. The French and Italian drafts were in the form of a series of propositions laying down general rules and assuming that the committee, or whatever body made the final formulations would build upon those principles if they were adopted. They were principles quite consistent with the final action."

At Liberty to Interpret.

In reply to Senator McCumber the president repeated that he felt it would be a mistake to embody interpretations in the resolution of ratification, saying: "We can interpret only a moral obligation. The legal obligation can be enforced by such machinery as there is to enforce it. We therefore, at liberty to interpret the sense in which we undertake a moral obligation."

Senator McCumber asked whether the other nations could not accept interpretations by the senate "by acquiescence."

"The President—My experience as a lawyer was not very long, but that experience would teach me that the language of a contract is always part of the debatable matter, and I can testify that in our discussions in the commission on the League of Nations we did not discuss ideas half as much as we discussed phraseology."

The president said if reservations were embodied in the ratification there would have to be either explicit acquiescence or the elapsing of a long enough time for us to know whether they (the other governments) were implicitly acquiescing or not."

Guests at Luncheon.

The satisfaction of the president's household turned into positive joy when the senators accepted Mr. Wilson's invitation to stay to luncheon.

"The pleasant character of the luncheon," said Senator Borah, "indicates merely that the opponents of the treaty are not in the least actuated by any personal hostility to the president. They merely disagree with him upon principle and policy."

Senator Borah, and other senators who have opposed the treaty, said this would be the last day, when, seated within the next few days, when it will be demonstrated that no convictions had been changed by the discussion at the White House or by the friendly familiarity at the president's table.

Two Lieutenants Captured as Result of Mistaking Conchos River for Rio Grande—Twenty Bandits in Gang.

Marfa, Tex., Aug. 20.—Lieut. H. G. Peterson and Lieut. Paul H. Davis, United States army aviators, held prisoners by Mexicans since last Wednesday after being forced to land the preceding Sunday on Mexican soil, on Tuesday were released by Mexican bandits after the payment of $5,500 of the $15,000 demanded.

Captain Matlack, who took the ransom money across the border, paid half the ransom money for the release of Lieutenant Peterson, and when Lieutenant Davis was delivered to him, he galloped away with the officer, without making the final payment.

The aviators had wandered from Sunday afternoon until Wednesday along the Conchos river near Falmori, Chihuahua, under the impression they were on the Rio Grande.

"I had a great deal of trouble," was Peterson's message to his father.

One attempt was made to escape by the aviators. They were threatened with death if they tried again.

Jesus Renteria and a band of five Mexicans accomplished their capture. There were twenty bandits at a ranch where they were held.

By a prearranged signal from Captain Matlack, a patrol of Mexican soldiers, and then crossed the border with the ransom money.

Lieutenant Peterson crossed the border to the American side at 1:15 a. m. and Captain Matlack brought back Lieutenant Davis at two.

Captain Matlack said this morning that the two aviators landed in Mexico. He declared they thought they had landed in the United States, and this impression on their part was not corrected until after they had reached the border today.

The aviators, the captain explained, had become confused while in the air and had mistaken the Conchos river for the Rio Grande. Instead of landing near Candelaria, as they thought, they had landed at a point near Falmori, Chihuahua, more than forty miles up the Conchos river, where they abandoned their wrecked airplane after stripping it of machine guns and vital parts, which might make it of use to the Mexicans.

Thinking they were on the Rio Grande, they started down stream in an effort to locate Candelaria and report their accident to military headquarters. They landed at 12:30 Sunday afternoon and were picked up Wednesday morning by the Renteria band.

They were taken into the mountains, but thought they were approaching Valentine, Tex. They were told that 60 men belonged to the band, while in reality the aviators saw only 20 men at the ranch where they were held. Captain Matlack said the bandits were well mounted.

Various plans for obtaining the ransom money were discussed by the bandits. One was for the delivery of the sum and Americans in the middle of the Rio Grande. Another was for the aviators to be taken 100 yards up river and the money taken an equal distance down the river and both left at the same time.

Finally it was agreed that an American army officer should be sent from the American side upon signals from the bandits by means of flares. At the same time Renteria was to start from the Mexican side with the Americans. They were to meet and exchange prisoners and money.

Captain Matlack's rise, by which he saved $5,500, was contrived on the spur of the moment after he had got Lieutenant Peterson across the border.

"I just decided there was no use in paying those Mexicans that other $5,500 after I had Davis, so I told him to jump on his horse and we started a wild dash for the border and made it. They called for us to halt, but I said 'Go to h—' and crossed."

Expedition Advances on Wide Line—Freed Aviators Lead Punitive Forces Across River—Only $5,500 Ransom Paid.

Marfa, Tex., Aug. 21.—Spread out fan-shaped over a wide stretch of Mexican country south of the Rio Grande, United States cavalry troops, aided by airmen in bombing planes as scouts, combed the mountains for the bandits who held for ransom two American aviators.

After the forward dash over the border the troops probably are handicapped by a storm which was reported in messages by field telephone to be raging in the mountains below the border.

It was feared the torrential rains would obliterate trails left by the bandits. The expeditionary force for a time moved forward in the face of high winds, according to the reports.

The two lieutenants for whom ransom was demanded, and who were released, led the Americans in their quest of the bandits. Both sent messages to their families.

With nearly six hours start on the American punitive expedition, the bandits are believed to have scattered in the mountain passes and canyons, and it probably will be necessary to search every square mile of the rough country below the border, in the opinion of military men.

Despite the expected difficulty in locating the bandits from the air, American aviators left the flying field and scouted the entire Ofiagaa district.

It was not known how many are in the bandit band. Lieutenant Davis said six men. There were 20 other bandits at the ranch where the bandits stopped.

Arrangements for nurses, ambulances and surgical dressings for the punitive expedition troops are being made by Elmer Donnell of St. Louis, for use in case of emergency.

E. M. Fennell, a banker of this city, arrived and announced that the amount of ransom actually paid for release of the aviators was $5,500. Fennell took the $15,000 demanded to the money brought back by Captain Matlack after release of the aviators showed $5,500 remained. The money, in $50 bills, was deposited in a bank here.

Fennell told the first connected story of events preceding the crossing of the American aviators to the United States. He outlined preliminary negotiations Monday between Captain Matlack and the Mexican brother-in-law of Renteria, who acted as a go-between.

Fennell said the bandits insisted the delivery of the aviators be made after dark so flares might be seen. The go-between crossed to San Antonio, Chihuahua, opposite Candelaria, and selected the spot where the aviators were to be delivered.

It was at an old cottonwood tree, a mile and a half south of San Antonio. The go-between then returned to the American side and said arrangements had been completed.

When the flares agreed upon flared to show after midnight, Captain Matlack crossed. He was gone more than half an hour, returning with Lieutenant Peterson.

Returning to the old cottonwood, Captain Matlack told Lieutenant Davis to get on behind. Then the captain spurred his horse without delivering the balance of the money.

The ATHENS of SOUTH AMERICA

Primate Cathedral of Colombia in Bogotá.

THE name with which Licencio don Gonzalo Jiménez de Quesada and his wandering hosts christened the Andean plateau was Santa Fe. To that nobleman nothing seemed more fitting than to give to the land he had discovered the name of his birthplace—that classic Santa Fe founded upon royal command by Ferdinand and Isabella opposite the opulent Granada, to vex the multitude of heretic Mohammedans who aroused the jealousy and resentment of the Spanish by their fustian and turban.

And what a thrill the conquistador must have felt, yet what homeliness must have been awakened within him as he gazed upon a plain watched over by two sunnier hills, so like that of his own land, with the Moorish Granada guarding the Castilian city, writes W. P. Anzola Sumner in the Bulletin of the Pan American Union. But the Val de Castiles (Valle de los Almendres), the "Paradise of the Andes," the spot of Zim de Bacuta, its rightful possessor, was renamed by the new lords in mail and armor. Bacuta fled, abandoning his dominion, to die in the heart of the forest, never knowing that after centuries justice should be paid him; that the "very noble and loyal city" should bear his name, slightly modified.

The national capital situated on the southern side of the Plaza de Bolívar, resembles the Church of the Madeleine in Paris, and is considered one of the best stone edifices in South America.

Along the entire western side of the plaza extends buildings uniformly of pure French style, and along the eastern side modern buildings; on the eastern side is the cathedral. From the Plaza de Bolívar the main thoroughfares extend in every direction, almost all paved with asphalt and kept in excellent condition by the municipality. Calle Real, the principal business street, and Florin street are the most bustling of the city. The former, a wide thoroughfare, merges into Republic avenue (Avenida de la República).

LITHUANIAN RULE IN RUSSIA

History Shows That While It Lasted Slaves Had a Liberty and Just Government.

One of the fairest chapters in the history of Lithuania—whose life story has been more tragic than happy throughout all the centuries of its existence—is that dealing with her rule over a large part of Russia during the thirteenth, fourteenth and early years of the fifteenth centuries.

Lithuania has been bounded around Europe and abused at every turn since that time, but she can point with pride to the proper and benevolent use of her political powers when she had them.

Lithuanian historians bear testimony to the liberal rule of the Lithuanians over the Russian people during this epoch, and aver that the Russians enjoyed the greatest liberty of thought, speech, religion and education throughout the Lithuanian regime.

Local self-government was harmonized to meet the needs of the nobles, and the laws and institutions based on the Lithuanian statutes were flexible and easily accommodated to the temperament and customs of the subject people.

Certain of these Russian provinces flourished under Lithuanian rule for over 500 years, finally reverting to Russia in the eighteenth century.

The Design Shown Here Is Intended to House Sheep, Horses and Cattle—Modern Buildings Good Investment.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

With wool at the present price and the likelihood that it will stay there because of the world-wide shortage, thousands of American farmers are adding flocks of sheep to the live stock on their places. And in so doing there has come a need for buildings to house them.

Raising lambs and keeping a flock of sheep in a healthy condition requires more care than in accomplishing the same result with other farm animals. Sheep, and especially lambs, are very susceptible to weather conditions, and frequently a rainy spell will cause a considerable loss. While sheep must have plenty of pasture in which to run and feed, they also must have a place to shelter them, for they certainly "know enough to come in when it rains." Besides the feed the flock gets from the pasture, it is necessary also to provide them with roughage, which usually is placed in specially designed feed racks. Most of this feeding is done indoors by those who have been successful in sheep raising.

Farm building architects, whose business it is to design buildings to suit the needs of various kinds of animals, have taken the needs of sheep into consideration in planning the sheep barn. But there are many farmers who would keep a small flock of sheep, if they could do so without making a large investment in buildings. For the latter class there has been planned the barn shown in the accompanying illustration.

This fourteen-sided barn is 60 feet in diameter and has a 12-foot silo in the center. On the mow floor around the silo there is ample space for the wintering of the flock.

Economically Bogotá is on a sound footing, being a commercial and banking center of constantly growing importance. The center of the city is a large capital, the American Mercantile bank (Banco Mercantil Americano) having been established last year, and at present the establishment of another is under consideration. Several insurance companies contribute to the success of financial enterprises. Large export houses have founded headquarters here and importation is conducted on rather a large scale. Foreign credit companies in the United States and Europe are added factors in Bogotá's development. Industry also is being developed. Thread and textile industries compete with foreign establishments in the production of fabrics and cloth. Stock raising is increasing considerably on the plain, the strains having been carefully selected from stock brought from England, and the wool market is plentiful.

The supply of hay for the animals the building will accommodate, while the silo furnishes them with fresh feed throughout the winter months.

The exterior of the barn is attractive and will add to the appearance of the farm building group. It is of frame construction set on a concrete foundation. The half of the interior which is devoted to stalls for the horses and sheep has a ciner floor, graded so as to provide ample drainage to keep the floor dry, a thing the sheep must have.

The stalls for horses and cows or for either of them are placed in a semi-circle, the animals to face in. At the rear of the stalls is a gutter sunk into the concrete floor, and overhead is a carrier track for the removal of litter. The track also runs over the head of the stalls, which makes the feeding of the stock easy, and extends around the building over the sheep feeding racks.

The plan of the floor shows the placing of the stalls, the sheep feed racks and the overhead carrier system. The feed racks are movable and can be constructed by the carpenter who builds the barn. While they are placed under the carrier track for convenience, they can be transferred out doors, in good weather and taken into the barn in bad.

The stalls will accommodate fourteen horses or cattle and provide them with the comforts that these animals need to do their best work, or to be at the highest state of proficiency. The windows admit plenty of sunshine and keep fresh air circulating through the barn. These are

No Room for Idlers. The idler is to society what the drone is to the hive. Civilization hinders men from giving them the treatment accorded to drones, but I'm not sure that future peoples will deal so leniently with clogs to progress.

The systematic codding system robs men of vision, industry and life's wholesome rewards. Life purposes can't grow without incentives. These are associated with life and its needs. They challenge and draw forth the best that is in you. Other motives are insignificant in comparison. The drone on the other hand does nothing that is constructive. He sips the honey but adds nothing to the welfare of the hive.—Pennsylvania Grit.

Vegetation Carried Far. Evidence of possible long-distance plant dispersion could doubtless be picked up on many coasts. N. Colgan reports to the Royal Irish Academy that for two centuries observers have been finding tropical seeds along the Atlantic coast of Ireland from Donegal to Kerry Head, and it is concluded that these have come from the West Indies without human aid.

two essentials if the animals are to be kept healthy, especially the cows. The construction of farm buildings, homes, barns, hog houses, granaries, chicken houses and the smaller buildings, the modern farmer wants and needs, has undergone many radical changes during the last few years.

chickens have made an intensive study of the requirements in a building to make it a healthy place for the live stock, and have embodied the results of this study in the designs for these structures. The prospective builder will make no mistake in consulting an experienced architect when he plans to erect any sort of a new farm building. From the architect and from the contractor and material dealer can be gained some valuable pointers.

Poor farm buildings are a bad investment. If they are to house the livestock they must be so equipped and so planned as to keep the animals producing at top speed, or the profit, at the present prices of feed and labor, will be lost. Labor, too, is a big expense item on the farm nowadays, and by installing in the barn a litter carrier and other conveniences less time is required to care for the livestock and more time can be devoted to the work in the fields. Besides, labor saving equipment tends to make the help more contented to remain on the farm, which is a point the progressive farmer is not overlooking.

This is the year of farm building. The farmer's business has become one of the most important in the scheme of existence, and, likewise, one of the most profitable, if it is conducted efficiently and economically. And there is nothing that brings about this happy result more than well-built, well-planned and modern buildings.

While the cost in money this year is more than it was during the years preceding the war, some bright minds have figured out that when the price of buildings is figured in terms of farm products it is much less. In other words it requires fewer bushels of wheat, corn or oats, or less of any other of the things produced on the farm to build a barn or a home than it did three or four years ago. And as the cost of everything is relative, the farmer has no cause to hesitate if he needs a new farm building.

Cities Go West. Henry Waterson says cities have a strange tendency to move west. They do, writes "Guard" in the Philadelphia Press.

Europe's three largest cities, London, Paris and Berlin, have distinctly moved west from their original centers.

Tokyo, which is Japan's biggest city, and Canton, the metropolis of China, Calcutta for years the capital of India, and Cairo, the largest city of Africa, shifted westward.

South America's two principal cities, Rio Janeiro and Buenos Aires, grew inland, as did Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago.

New York expanded north and east, as it couldn't leap the Hudson on the west.

If you examine the records of Pennsylvania's chief cities, you will find that the center of population in most of them has traveled toward the setting and not the rising sun.

Cologne Has Improved. The poet, Samuel Taylor Coleridge, was a dreamer, an opium eater and a man of curious moods and tastes.

One time he visited Germany and afterward wrote his impression of the city of Cologne. He corroborated the ancient tradition that Cologne was once a filthy and evil-smelling place that certain inhabitants thereof exploited its imperfections by inventing a perfume of the cheap and lingering sort, by means of which the lives of the inhabitants were made more tolerable since it furnished them with a palliative, not a cure, for their unsanitary condition. The Cologne of today is fair and sane to all to satisfy the most sensitive of noses.

Eight species of fruits and seeds have been recognized—all native or naturalized in the West Indies and known to be capable of floating on the water at least a year.

Feathers Always in Order. Easily the Favorite Trimming for Midsummer Hats—Turban Are Seen in Every Shade.

Feathers are the midsummer favorite hat trimming. Feather turbans in brilliant shades of peony, rose, emerald, blue and all white are featured for wear with white silk and serge suits, and thin frocks of voile and organdie.

Feathers shading from the stem to the tip of their long fronds run from pink to pale violet in the hydrangea tones and are especially lovely on pink or lavender Neapolitan crepe gette crepe hats. These picture hats are charming with pastel organdie gowns.

Broadly picturesque shapes of leghorn faced with georgette in old blue or pink are trimmed with pink feathers. Crowns of leghorn carry sheer brim of georgette crepe and long uncurled ostrich plumes.

A charming hat is a quashroom shape of rose straw. The brim is faced with within two inches of the edge with old rose taffeta. The crown is surrounded by soft fronds of uncurled ostrich in the same lovely shade of rose.

This hat is charming when worn with a gown of gray georgette crepe or with white or rose organdie. This model is also effective in purple, for wear with orchid frocks, and is picturesque in pale pink. This type hat in all black is popular for evening wear with light gowns.

Velvet Hats Worn. Velvet hats are beginning to put in their appearance, regardless of the fact that manufacturing milliners have talked a great deal about getting back to the normal and months ago announced that summer weight millinery would be worn this summer.

Little Girl's Party Dress. For party wear this summer the prime favorite of the little girl is the frock of georgette, trimmed with tucks or hemstitching, or with dainty embroidery in contrasting color.

New Styles in Parisian Hats

Smartest Headgear Now Shown in French Capital More or Less Crownless.

HINDU TURBAN IS POPULAR

Milliners Must Be Credited With Some Remarkably Smart Effects in These Styles—Both Plain and Printed Foulards Worn.

Paris milliners are sending us midsummer hats that are in delightful contrast to the utterly unreasonable velvet-crowned hats with tulle or organdie brims we have been wearing during the last two summers, says Sarah Marshall Cook, writing in the New York Tribune.

The smartest tulle hats are crownless, but for those who object to having their carefully coiffed heads disarranged by the breezes a soft party Every type of both day and evening headgear that French women are wearing carries out some phase of this hat, over which Paris has gone quite mad.

Turbans Are Worn in Evening. An everlasting source of inspiration for our hats is the Hindu turban, and now it has found its way into hats of tulle. Turbans are worn in the evening. They are not a variation of the oriental headgear, but the real thing, being formed of a braided band of gold tissue, topped by tulle and shower wreaths of algerettes. A very smart effect is produced by placing black algerettes on brown turbans.

Lewis, the man in Paris, has had phenomenal success with transparent hats. His favorite model is in shape very much on the order of the head covering worn by the beauties of the court of Louis XVI. The brim of this crownless hat consists of frills of brown silk net, held in at the back by a saucy bow of the same material. Any woman with chestnut hair who tops her well-coiffed locks with a hat such as that may be sure of looking particularly lovely.

Metal Brocades in French Parasols. When we saw metal brocades in our summer evening gowns and hats we thought the craze for this material had reached its climax; but that it had not is now indicated in the newest French parasols. Those of black tulle are fringed with deep bands of metal brocade ribbon. Black tulle parasols have bands of embroidery done in silver and gold threads.

Handies are as elaborate as parasols themselves. Ebony sticks studded with turquoise bands are used, as are also sticks of ivory. Some of these ivory handles have two bracelet rings, one of ebony and the other of ivory.

skirt of foulard. The neck and abbreviated sleeves are finished with softly undulating frills of organdie. The dress is assured by its remarkable popularity at the Paris races; large patterns in black and white being particularly in evidence. Mousselines are printed in very bright colored patterns and in designs reminiscent of the old shawls of Kashmir. A Bagdad skirt worn all the way down the front to correspond with an open bodice gathered in at the waistline and having kimono sleeves is made of soft white mousseline printed in bright red. This dress is worn over a straight white organdie slip flared around the bottom and down the front, the flared white slip falling at least four inches below the mousseline skirt.

Something New. More than a century ago the ill-fated Marie Antoinette popularized a simple dress, known as La Laveuse, or the washerwoman dress. Today the house of Premet is making charming frocks of this kind for its favorite customers, who order in half dozen at a time made in different becoming colors to wear on summer mornings in the country. So simple and easy fitting are these frocks that they are almost negligible.

The frill aprons which are part of the dresses are demure and charming. Sometimes when pale-tinted cotton fabrics are chosen for the gowns little frills of white organdie are used for the collar, cuffs and ends of the apron strings. One of these Premet dresses is here illustrated. An average dressmaker could easily copy it, and with very little work have morning dresses that are distinctive as well as comfortable and useful.

Fichus Resemble Quaint Capes. Another pleasing French idea that could be utilized in having clothes made by a seamstress, or perhaps in having a gown remodeled—for it is difficult to get remodeling ideas—is the fichu bodice which Laubin has emphasized in so many of her dresses this season. This fichu resembles a quaint shoulder cape. It is a simple little thing to make and is picturesque and becoming to all slender women.

Mme. Laubin attaches slim, straight skirts to equally straight, high-waisted bodices, and then drapes around them the fichu, which she makes of lace, embroidery or crepe. When crepe is used an embroidered pattern of a contrasting shade is usually worked on it. The one shown in the sketch today, Mme. Laubin made in the colors of France. For the skirt she used crepe the shade of the French soldier's coat, whereas the fichu was red embroidered in blue.

Huge knobs of carved wood finish the sticks of the new coaching parasols. In contrast to these elaborate sunshades are lovely little garden sets, consisting of pagoda parasols made of mousseline frilled at the edge with two rows of narrow black ribbon and of hats made of the same materials.

Plain and Printed Foulards. We have, at one time or another, experienced the exhaustion and despair which come from the search for frocks to wear on trips to town that will give us the coolness and comfort provided

WASHINGTON CITY SIGHTS

Presidential Bees Are Buzzing in Many Bonnets

WASHINGTON.—Never in American history have so many men aspired to the presidency of the United States. Nearly two score eligibles can be mentioned now who are willing to undertake the task of piloting the ship of state through the breakers ahead. They include United States senators by the dozen, governors of states, cabinet and ex-cabinet members, a former president, soldiers and others in varying fields of activities.

Of the Republican boom the most active today are for Frank O. Lowden, governor of Illinois; Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio, and Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, commander of the Central department, U. S. A.

On the Democratic side everybody is wondering what President Wilson is going to do. Some of the Democratic leaders say that it may be necessary to smash all precedent and nominate him for a third term in order to finish the peace job. If President Wilson refuses to be a candidate for a third term the Democratic scramble will be as lively as the Republican.

In the senate the most formidable candidates are Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, former chairman of the foreign relations committee; Alton Pomerene of Ohio; Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma; Oscar Underwood of Alabama, and George E. Chamberlain of Oregon, who gained especial prominence in resisting the administration's preparedness program.

Outside the senate leading Democrats insist that former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo of New York, the "crown prince," still is to be reckoned with, although Mr. McAdoo has said he is not a candidate.

In the cabinet are two possibilities, Secretary of War Newton D. Baker and A. Mitchell Palmer, the attorney general.

Vast June Exports Stagger Washington Experts

ADVANCE figures on exports for June, showing a total of $200,000,000 in excess of the record month in the history of the country, have staggered government officials here. While it was realized that exports were climbing by leaps and bounds, even the department of commerce experts who tabulated the statistics were not prepared for the tremendous showing indicated by the figures.

The June exports totaled $18,000,000, as against $484,000,000 in June, 1918. The record month previously was in April of this year, when the total was more than $700,000,000.

The June figures bring the total for the fiscal year ending June 30 up to the huge sum of $7,255,000,000, as compared with $5,920,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918. This is more than three times the exports for 1914, the last normal year. Exports since the signing of the armistice are estimated at about $5,000,000,000. The excess of exports over imports for the fiscal year 1919 was $4,121,000,000, against $3,000,000,000 the previous year and less than $500,000 in 1914.

Imports for June were valued at $293,000,000, a falling off from the total of $329,000,000 recorded for May, but an increase over the $200,000,000 for June of the previous year.

Total imports for the fiscal year just closed are placed at $3,095,000,000, as against $2,940,000,000 for 1918.

At an $18,000,000 for June, the figures, said Secretary Redfield, "There might be a little tendency to exult over them, but the real significance is a deeper one and more of a serious nature. The figures involve a tremendous responsibility and opportunity."

"We are loaded with wealth. We have got gold, goods, credits, and equipment—everything the world wants. The world is starving for what we have."

Y. M. C. A. Statement Shows Scope of Its Operations

FIRST detailed accounts of the receipts and expenditures of the Young Men's Christian association show that $125,282,859 was received by it between April 26, 1917, and March 31, 1919. Total expenditures aggregated $97,817,005, in the period named, leaving a balance of $27,465,854, a sum estimated to be sufficient to carry on the work here and abroad until December 31 next.

Slightly more than 2 per cent of the total funds contributed by the American public were expended for religious purposes in the United States and overseas, while approximately 90 per cent was devoted to the purchase, transportation and distribution of canned supplies and to entertainments, education and athletic sports. In addition to the provision of free athletic supplies, which included, among other things, in the United States camps, alone, 557,096 baseballs and 20,000 sets of boxing gloves, the Y. M. C. A. distributed overseas $36,832,449 worth of merchandise. Of this merchandise $1,794,771 worth, or approximately 5 per cent, was given free to the soldiers. This does not include overseas Christmas gifts and entertainment work, $251,963. Of the $97,817,005 expended, more than $30,000,000 was spent in the home camps, more than $43,000,000 with the American expeditionary forces abroad, and $14,406,175 with the allied armies and prisoners of war.

More than 67,000 concerts, vaudeville performances and other entertainments were staged by the "Y" in American entertainments to an aggregate audience of 43,500,000, at a cost of $1,166,767. In addition, free motion picture shows in the home camps necessitated an outlay of $2,328,271.

Erection of 950 huts for men in training camps on this side cost $7,638,984 and the outlay for maintenance was $3,965,738. The 1,900 or more "Y" huts and tents built or leased for the use of the American expeditionary forces cost $4,801,271.

Coming of the Prince of Wales Agitates the "400"

THE heart of Washington society is beginning to palpitate visibly over the prospect of the visit of the prince of Wales. The prince is not coming till some time in October, but it is understood that Breckenridge Long, the assistant secretary of state, to whose office falls the duty of carrying out and in some measure suggesting the entertainment, will begin to formulate a program as soon as he returns from Bar Harbor.

Reports come from London that even the American embassy is involved in the desperate strategy of Newport and New York society leaders to secure the coveted honor of entertaining the prince of Wales during his American visit, if only for 15 minutes.

It is said that all sorts of cables are received by Ambassador Davis from New York, Newport and Washington pleading or demanding that the ambassador secure a modification of the prince's plan to stick to his warship while in New York.

Some have gone so far as to bring influence to bear upon some potent senator at Washington to get him to send a personal cable to Mr. Davis urging that he swing the deal. It is a safe bet that somebody will try to reach Mrs. Wilson, hoping that she'll "put it across" with the president.

It is reported that even Queen Mary is receiving cables, sometimes in undiplomatic terms, urging her to let her boy grace some Newport holiday.

American Sherlock Holmeses and the "Nut" File

FANTASTIC results were expected to accrue when, during the war, the federal government asked each of its 100,000,000 citizens to constitute himself a Sherlock Holmes for the detection of the disloyal. Good service resulted as a whole, but the call, to a certain element, was like extending an invitation to a banquet to the nation's loafers, loafers and women from coast to coast who have the letter-writing mania, those people who may possess brilliant minds gone wrong, or dwarfed brains reaching out beyond their sphere, grasped the occasion as a long-sought opportunity.

So the department of justice, which through its bureau of investigation enforced the espionage act, and therefore became the clearing house for such information, found itself the recipient of wagonloads of epistles from the errant, letters from lunatics, notes from the nutty. So numerous were these communications that it became necessary to establish what it dubbed its "nut" file, and there today may be seen a most remarkable collection of letters from these mental cripples.

A study of these letters was equal to a course in the psychology of the unbalanced, but it likewise required much effort. Some of the letters contain as many as 5,000 words. Most writers offer suggestions and advice as to how the war should have been fought and how the department should cope with pro-Germans in this country. The department would have needed a force of agents as large as the army to investigate the charges made in these letters.

The "nut" file is exceedingly interesting reading.

Just a Hint. Gerald lives downtown and comes up whenever he smells something good being made. One day was doughnut day and Gerald, being cautioned by his mother never to ask for anything, said: "I mustn't ask for anything, but—um—them doughnuts smell good!"

by legislation the chemical warfare service, otherwise known as gas service of Uncle Sam's forces.

Until June 30, 1920, therefore, the gas service by order of the lawmakers was to be continued with that status and authorities that it had on the day that the armistice went into effect, November 11, 1918. The committee of congress which went into the subject heard the whole history of the gas service, its intimate relations with the chemical and dye industry, how the Germans built their pairs of one suburban wrens under the shadow of one suburban residence. Woodpeckers, crickets, chickadees, robins, beebees, martins, chipping sparrows, bobbed, sparrows, sparrow hawks, red shouldered hawks, and a dozen other species of birds were nesting, community-like, on the same domain.

SAVING'S SILLY; SEE THIS.

"Rotten policy to save! Fatal to save! Find out what it's too late, don't want what you've been saving for—outgrow your impulses. Buried with your bank book and every one glad you're dead. No—no. Spend while you're young. Get a hold on all the friendship and all the love within you reach—and then, when you're old, at least memories will be yours as comforters."—"Our Wonderful Selves," by Roland Pertwee.

Golden Moment is Now.

Shake a barrel of apples and the sound ones will come to the top. And in this great industrial shakeup the man of right heart and keen mind will find his chance. He who has not succeeded as well as he would have liked has now less cause or time than ever for the cavil of discontent or resistance to the advance of industrial peace and progress. Now is his golden moment to apply heart and brain and muscle to the best opportunity of his hand.

—Charles Grant Miller, in the Christian Herald.

FAMOUS APPIAN WAY.

The Appian way was the first great Roman road formally undertaken as a public work, it is said. It was begun in 312 B. C. by Appius Claudius Caecus. Today the Appian way forms one of the most notable memorials of antiquity in or near the Eternal city, bordered by tombs and the ruins of monumental buildings. Long stretches of the pavement remain perfect. The width of the Appian way was from 14 to 18 feet.

That Morning Grouch.

Morning "grouchingness" is frequent; nothing more than a product of the late hour habit. So is a tendency to see the world at all times through smoked glasses. Prolong the hours of sleep and optimism may soon replace the pessimism deplorably in evidence in many short sleepers. And with the change in mood will come an increase in working power. For pessimists are notoriously inefficient workers, if only because of the mental and physical demoralization which pessimism always involves in some degree.

IT'S NOT YOUR HEART; IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. A majority of the ill-afflicted people today can be traced back to the kidney trouble. The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters of your blood. If the poisons which are swept from the tissues by the blood are not eliminated through the kidneys, disease of one form or another will claim you as a victim. Kidney disease is usually indicated by weakness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gravel, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago. All these derangements are nature's signals that the kidneys need help. You should use GOLD MEDAL Barter's Oil Capsules immediately. The soothing, healing oil stimulates the kidneys, relieves inflammation and destroys the germs which have caused it. Go to your druggist today and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Barter's Oil Capsules. In twenty-four hours you should feel health and vigor returning. After you feel somewhat improved, continue to take one or two capsules each day, so as to keep the first-class condition and ward off the danger of other attacks. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. Three sizes. Money refunded if they do not help you.

STIRRED IRE OF BOY SCOUT

Youngster Properly Rebuked Woman Who Threw Sacred Receipt Into a Rubbish Receptacle.

Here is a pretty boy scout story. El. S. Heron of Germantown told it to Edward Bok, who passes it on to you. "One thing I have always admired about the scouts," said Mr. Heron, "is that they are eager to teach the etiquette of the American flag."

"Some time ago I heard of a woman scoutmaster say that she had thoughtlessly thrown away a small American flag, and it somehow found its way into the street cleaners' hands."

"But only a short time after a box with waste, containing that soiled flag, had been put out on the curb, a wee little scout came into her store, saluted in grand military style and said:

"Madam, I found this flag out there in your rubbish. Don't you know that flag that way? Isn't he banded the woman the flag and told her please not to let that occur again."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"There's a Reason"

VERY FEW YOUNGSTERS TO BE FOUND ON MANAGER ROBINSON'S TEAM OF DODGERS

of His Veteran Players. To mind the fact that there are few youngsters on the team, which is a relief to the old-timers. Lew Malone, Chuck Ward, Tom Fitzsimmons, Pete Kiliani and Ray Schmandt are comparatively young in the game, but all have had their share of experience and hard knocks. Every pitcher has been through the mill, likewise every catcher. Not one of the youngsters who was taken South last spring to prove his fitness for big league playing, Malone excepted, is on the club roster. Big Benji, Joe Nagle and Eugene Sheridan never got a chance to play in the big show. Manager Robinson must begin to do some thinking about youngsters to take the places of the veterans. They will not last forever. Some, indeed, are near the ragged edge right now of stepping off.

SLIM SALLEE IS MORAN'S ACE

threatening to shatter the pennant dream of the Giants. Sallee is about thirty-four years of age now. He threatened to retire from baseball last spring if forced to play in New York again. He only agreed to stay in the game when sold by the Giants to Cincinnati. Slim is the only major league player of record who honestly dislikes New York. Despite the fact that he was successful with the Gats and pitched on the pennant-winning team of 1917, Slim was never happy there.

JOHN WATSON IS HOPELESS

Pitcher Looked Good Last Year, but Starts This Season Showing Nothing to Connie Mack.

Connie Mack gave John Watson up as hopeless last week and released him to Baltimore. Watson looked pretty good last year, but in his three starts this spring showed nothing that would encourage Mack to keep him. In his place Mack has signed a young pitcher named Eisenberger, who comes from an independent team at Marysville, Pa. He recently returned from France, where he made a reputation pitching army baseball, though it is not explained how a doughboy with such a name got by.

Don't Miss Morgan.

Baltimore doesn't seem to have missed Ray Morgan any. Bishop is playing good ball at second base and Boley continues to star at short. With Fritz Maier on third and Bentley on first the Orioles have an infield that would be hard to beat in Class A.A.

Pitcher Moore Gets Tryout.

The Des Moines club will give a tryout to Jimmy Moore, a southern pitcher who has made a reputation in a city league at Omaha. He is a little fellow, but said to have a lot of stuff.

Scouting for Cardinals.

Charles Sfis, former minor league manager and player, has been added to the scouting staff of the St. Louis Cardinals and is beating the bushes in hopes of seeing something worth while.

Wilbert Robinson is likely to make an outfielder of him. Allen has all the earmarks of an athlete. He stands about six feet, has big hands and can think quickly. Also, he is willing to learn and has no foolish notions about being a ready-made star. He keeps an ear cocked all the time for tips from the older players. When he hears a caustic comment on a play from a veteran or Uncle Wilbert he jots it down as a point for future reference.

DIAMOND NOTES

Yellow unpring makes the baseball fans blue.

Darl Schatzman, Omaha's soldier pitcher, shows signs of being erratic. It takes Connie Mack and Clark Griffith to dig up unknown baseball persons.

In spite of what has been handed them there are a lot of fans loyal to the Phillies.

Nashville's new outfielder, Dunning, from the Sally league, seems to be making good.

St. Joseph puts on big league airs with respect to catchers, as Cozy Dolan is carrying three.

Hendrix takes a healthy swing at the ball. If he would let him connect he could knock it a mile.

Prohibition is cutting down the production of bottles. The news should cause umpires to smile in relief.

President Heydler minced no words in telling Garry Herrmann his kick on the decision over the July 6 game is out of place.

Some day Veach is going to knock a lot of Mr. Navin's will in left field down when he goes crashing into it after fly balls.

Tutts has hopes. Barham and Shuckelford are figured to strengthen the pitching and the Others think that was about all needed.

The Cincinnati Reds is trying desperately hard to land an outfielder, as it is not figured Sheroed Magee will be able to play regularly for some time.

Al Mamaux seems to be hopeless, though his Brooklyn admirers are calling attention to the fact that Burleigh Grimes once lost 10 straight and that therefore Al should have a chance.

That baseball prophet who says the world series will be played between New York and Chicago evidently does not know of the plans that have been made in Cincinnati.

The Cleveland Indians released Oris Lambeth to Columbus, probably in order to give the soldier a chance to steadily down from his months in France. He has just returned.

Lee Pohl sets his players to halting Eddie Cicotte whenever Eddie pitches against Cleveland. Pohl has a standard, grudge against Cicotte's "shine ball" and never tires of complaining about it.

Donie Bush may not be slipping—maybe it's only the heat—but his constant rows with the umpires prove that either the umpires are rotten or that Donie has something on his mind that causes him to fret.

John McCloskey thinks his Benum team still has a chance and to improve it he plans to use Elmer Fowler, secured from Pittsburgh, and Ed Appleton, who is secured in a deal with Brooklyn.

When talking of new college stars breaking into the Southern this year, Lena Styles, the overworked, the University of Alabama boy is hitting better than 300 and doing a good job of it behind the bat.

WORTHLESSNESS OF PITCHERS' RECORDS

Peculiar Instance Recited of Game at Cincinnati.

Adolpho Luque, Cuban Twirler, Given Credit for Winning Contest Although Not in Lineup When Winning Runs Scored.

The worthlessness of "won and lost" records for pitchers is shown in the following instance as recited by Jack Ryder in Cincinnati Enquirer:

Adolpho Luque, the Cuban right-hander, received credit for winning the opening game of the season at Cincinnati from the Cardinals. He pitched only one inning, and was not actually in the lineup when the winning runs were scored, but his credit for victory in the records was in accordance with the rules governing the crediting of games to pitchers.

Luque went into the game at the start of the eighth inning, with the score 2 to 1 in favor of the Cardinals. The state of the score at that time eliminated Reuther, who had pitched the first seven rounds, from any chance of receiving credit for the game if the Reds should win. Reuther left the contest with a lower on his hands, and if no more runs had been scored by the Reds he would have been charged with the defeat.

Luque pitched the first half of the eighth inning with success, shutting out the enemy and retiring the side in order. In the last half of the inning the Reds staged a batting rally and eventually scored five runs, giving them the lead, 6 to 2. In the course of this rally Luque was taken out of the game to let Walter Reub bat for him at a critical time, and it was a base on balls to Reub, batting for Luque, which forced over the winning tally. By the time the inning was completed the Reds had the victory well in hand.

Hod Eller went in and pitched the ninth inning, retiring the opposing batters in one-two-three order. But Eller was not in the lineup when the Reds went to the front, and by the time he went to the box the Reds had the game won with the lead of four runs. Therefore he could not receive credit for winning the game, which had been won before he was picked to go into the box. The credit therefore reverts to Luque, who was the pitcher in charge of the game when the winning round was staged.

ATHLETE NEVER STOLE BASE

Hub Perdue Tells Story of Life's Tragedy, an Ambition of Fifteen Years Standing.

Hub Perdue, the famous Gallatin squaw, his eyes tear dimmed and his voice husky, recently confided to sorrowing friends the story of a life's tragedy, of an ambition of 15 years' standing never yet and apparently never to be fulfilled.

"I've been playing baseball for 15 years and I've never stolen a base," moaned the portly boxman of the Pellens.

"Surely, Hub," urged a bystander, "in all these years you have at times been on first and a runner on third and two out, or have gotten to first with the enemy ahead by a dock of runs and willing to let you steal 'round to third just for the fun of it."

"Never, never," answered the old-timer. "I'm determined to steal a base, though. If I have to stay in baseball ten years or more or break a leg while I am trying. The only way I could ever find for me to steal a base was to get a lantern and go out at night, but the scorers won't count that kind."

ROBINSON LIKES PUG ALLEN

Brooklyn Manager Is Very Sweet on Former Georgia Tech Player, Now With Dodgers.

Wilbur Robinson, Brooklyn manager, is very sweet on "Pug" Allen, the former Georgia Tech, first baseman, now with the Dodgers. Allen is a youth who plays well anywhere and is a splendid outfielder. Allen also played football and was a member of the famous Golden Tornado, Georgia Tech's last smart football aggregation of the last two falls.

Indians Stop Shawkey's Streak. Bob Shawkey had won ten games for himself in a row besides rescue work for which he got no credit in the won and lost column, when the Cleveland Indians stopped his streak.

Both Partells With Toronto. Mark Partell, who they still persist in calling "Benny" at Toronto, has rejoined the Toronto team to play short. His brother Billy is playing third base on the same team.

Worried Pennant Contenders. The Boston Braves may not win many championship games this season, but they appear to be quite successful in making things interesting for the teams regarded as most likely contenders for the pennant.

McCredie Against Spitter.

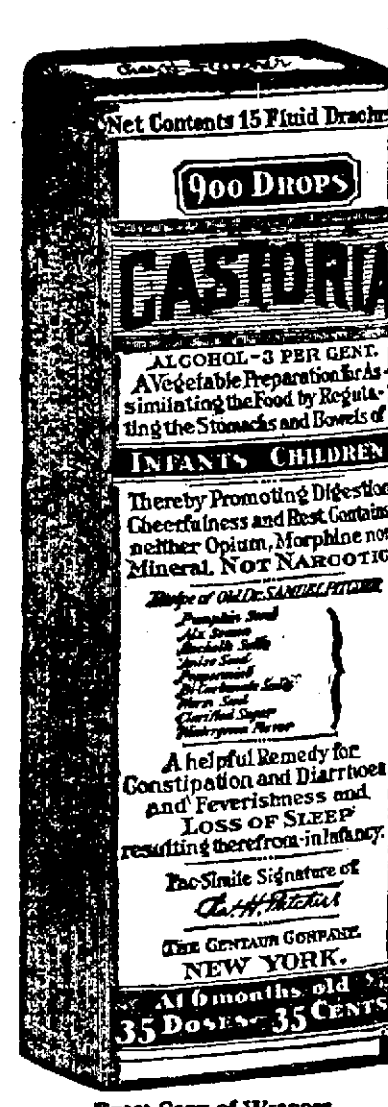

Walter McCredie says the spitball should be abolished in the Pacific coast league, which is a pretty good sign that McCredie has no spitball on his pitching staff.

Imitations Are Dangerous.

AN OHIO druggist writes to "The Practical Druggist," a prominent New York Drug Journal, as follows: "Please furnish formula for Castoria. All the formulas I have worked with are either ineffective or disagreeable to administer."

To this "The Practical Druggist" replies: "We do not supply formulas for proprietary articles. We couldn't if we wanted to. Your experience with imitative formulas is not surprising, but just what is to be expected. When Castoria is wanted, why not supply the genuine? If you make a substitute, it is not fair or right to label it Castoria. We can give you all sorts of laxative preparations for children, but not Castoria, and we think a mother who asks for Castoria would not feel kindly toward you if you gave her your own product under such a name."

No mother with a spark of affection for her child will overlook the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher when buying Castoria.

Children Cry For Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Mothers Must Use Care.

Why do we so often call your attention to imitations of Fletcher's Castoria? Because it is a baby's medicine and imitations are always dangerous, particularly imitations of a remedy for infants.

Your druggist may not keep an imitation but they are to be found on drug-store shelves. Reliable druggists think only of the welfare of their customers. The other kind only of the greater profit to be made on imitations.

Your own judgment tells you that Fletcher's Castoria having for over thirty years at great expense held up its reputation, must jealously guard it. Then, it follows that this company must use the very best of material. Must employ experts in the selection of the herbs. Must retain skilled chemists in its manufacture.

Your same good judgment must tell you that these irresponsible imitations are trading on your credulity and the reputation built up by Mr. Fletcher, during all these years, for his Castoria.
